

ALLIES GAINING ON SOMME; PRISONERS 3,000

Germans Renew Furious Attack on Verdun Front

NEAR LEMBERG England and France Demand Control of Greek Wires

A combined attack by French and British forces on the Somme front, Sunday, resulted in an important gain of ground between the villages of Forest and Clercy, which lie to the south of Comblès and to the east of Martrappe, over an extent of nearly four miles. These places were occupied by the French, while the British captured a part of the village of Forest and gained total possession of Clercy. Thus the advance of the British allies is closing in on Comblès, which at present is a powerfully fortified German stronghold.

In the various attacks launched by the British and French, more than 3,000 prisoners were taken, together with a large number of guns.

German positions east of the village of Clercy also were overrun by the French, who carried several trenches and organized works.

During the night of their attack in the Verdun sector, sending large forces of infantry against the French positions at Vaux and Chéprey, and after heavy fighting, gained a foothold in one of the French defenses. At all points apparently the fighting continued with the utmost ferocity.

In the Balkans, German and Bulgarian troops already have crossed the Dobruja frontier, in Southeastern Rumania, announcing with the object of preventing the advance of Rumanians into Bulgaria and Constantinople.

Furious battles are in progress between Russian and Austro-German forces in Italian near Lemberg. Berlin reports repulse of Russian, but Petrograd declares the Germans have been driven from fortified positions and that several heights have been captured.

Advances on Greece Great Britain and France have sent a note to the Greek government demanding control over the Greek posts and telegraphs and insisting upon the deportation from Greece of agents of the Central Powers.

Entente allies reports from the Greek capital indicate the early announcement of an important change in the attitude of Greece.

Austrian articles on the Trentino front are still alarming Italians. There have been numerous infantry engagements, but the situation is without material change.

Advance on Lemberg Petrograd, Sept. 3, via London. In the Carpathians and in the region of Hornavatra on the Bukovina-Rumanian border, Russian troops, the announcement says, have driven the Germans from fortified positions and have captured several heights, taking 200 prisoners.

The text of the statement says: "Western (Russian) front: In the region of Rika, Germans attacked our Turkish battalions and drove the enemy back and inflicted severe losses. In the directions of Zehoff and Hailz, the enemy are making progress."

In the region of Raput mountain and also in the region of Doravatra, our troops captured several heights. The enemy's counter attack was repulsed by our fire. Here we captured 200 prisoners.

Turkish attacks in the region of Tchorak were repulsed by our fire. In the same line, this village was captured another gun."

DIRECTS ACTIVITY OF FEDERATED AMERICAN LABOR

FRANK MORRISON.

TO STOP WASTE OF HUMAN VALUE Is Purpose of Organized Labor, Says A. F. of L. Secretary

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, made public tonight the following statement in review of the labor situation: "It is impossible to record fundamental gains during the past year because of organized labor's adaptation to individualism and private gain during the year to come."

"The best we can do is to observe tendencies. Prominent among these is the workers' seizure of the cry for 'readjustment' to emphasize a danger in industry more deadly than battlefields."

"Government statistics show that 30,000 men are annually killed and 700,000 are annually injured for a period of four weeks, or over."

"It has been stated that every year there are over 3,000,000 cases of industrial illness, caused mainly by long hours, low wages, dust, bad air, fumes, smoke, poisonings and poor ventilation and that through typhoid fever and malaria alone 500,000,000 is annually lost to this nation through the loss of the largest army and navy in the world, and then have a balance sufficient to pay the tuition of every boy now in college."

"A system of national preparedness that does not include recognition of this frightful and preventable waste is the preparedness urged by big business. A morality that ignores these facts and condemns war is based on meaningless phrases."

"Another present-day tendency is the acceptance of organized labor's position of immigration restriction. During the past year the acid test of experience has verified the claim of trade unions that American institutions are not assimilated, nor are American living standards raised, the flood tide of industrial immigration that has been the policy of capitalists of industry. Information and reports received by the officers of the American Federation of Labor clearly demonstrate the fact that a 'labor famine' exists where employers still demand long hours at low wages, and where they ignore the living standards set by the workers. Another element among employers who talk of the security of labor is to entice a sufficient number of idle workers to their factories gates as a menace to those employed and who are liable to demand better conditions. These employers oppose restriction of immigration because restriction will defeat their policy of having ten or more men for every job."

"Another tendency is the growing opposition to labor injunctions, which class labor power as property. The Congress of the United States has voiced this opposition in amendments to the anti-trust laws. Judicial interpretation of the term 'property' in the fourth amendment to the federal constitution are losing their force. What was originally intended to end slavery has been used to thwart the enactment of social legislation, but courts have failed to check the swelling tide of democracy."

"The trade union movement is conscious of the part it has played in the tendencies above referred to and this consciousness will be a inspiration to greater effort during the coming year."

PIONEER PUBLISHER OF ILLINOIS IS DEAD Hiram N. Wheeler Had Been Editor of Quincy Journal Since 1883

QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 3.—Hiram N. Wheeler, probably the oldest newspaper publisher in Illinois and editor and publisher of the Quincy Journal since 1883, died at Jacksonville, Ill., this morning, aged 72. His death was caused by a general breakdown. He had been in failing health since his return last winter from Europe as a member of the Ford peace party.

In 1880 Mr. Wheeler went to Berlin, where he took charge of the editorial department of the Berlin Times. In 1881 he came to Quincy and bought the Quincy Journal, which he published for twenty years. It was in 1882 that he sold the Herald and bought out the first issue of the Quincy Journal, which he owned and published up to the time of his death.

Mr. Wheeler is survived by his widow and four children, two sons, both newspapermen, and two daughters.

MEXICAN BORDER COMMISSION TO MEET AT NEW LONDON

United States and Latin Members Both Reach New York

LANE SECRETARY NO CEREMONIES Portsmouth Found to Be Ill-Suited to the Session

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—All the members of the Mexican commission and the representatives of the United States appointed by their respective governments to settle the differences between the two countries were in this city tonight, preparatory to their departure for New London, Conn., Tuesday or Wednesday for joint conferences. J. Brooks Parker, assistant secretary to the United States commission, announced that the Connecticut city had been selected in place of Portsmouth, N. H., because the accommodations there were considered better. The party leaving here will consist of twenty-eight persons, all of whom will make the trip on the presidential yacht Mayflower.

Informal greetings were exchanged between the Americans and Mexicans tonight, but the members of the American commission will call tomorrow formally on the visitors and an hour later the Mexican commissioners will be guests at luncheon of Secretary Lansing.

Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior and chairman of the commission, said tonight a brief conference will be held tomorrow. "There is no telling just how long the commission will meet," Secretary Lane said. "Mr. Carranza has sent no theorists to this country. They are all practical men, two of them engineers, but there are likely to be many matters to be settled. Of course there is nothing binding on either country as to anything we may do. The principal matter is the border question. Others of like character will very likely be discussed. The American commissioners, all with the exception of J. Brooks Parker, think have been in Mexico, so will not be groping in the dark. Personally, I believe that we shall get along very well."

The Mexican commission consists of Luis Cabrera, chairman; Ignacio Bonilla and Dr. Albert J. Paul. The secretary is Juan B. Rojo and Edmundo L. Góngora is official translator.

The American commissioners are Secretary Lane, Judge Gray and Dr. John R. Mott.

County Elections. Municipal election in the Mexican sense, are not city elections, as the "municipio" is a district of a state, analogous to the American county. The large cities are, however, separate municipalities. But neither they nor the many districts have ever in Mexican history enjoyed home rule. Power for the various districts to manage their local affairs was granted by the reform law of December, 1914. But Chief Carranza has only now decided that the republic is sufficiently pacified to permit the experiment.

The second step in restoring civil government follows at a date yet to be announced, when governors and state legislators will be chosen. The final act will be the balloting for president, judges of the supreme court, senators and members of the chamber of deputies.

Political enemies of the Carranza administration, such as the adherents of the Diaz regime, have not had the hardihood to put tickets in the field, the constitutional party has its factions and its conflicting ambitions.

In Juarez the factions are represented in two classes. One is named after the Indian patriot Benito Juarez. The other, in reference to the Madero uprising, calls itself the Club Rememorative 1910—the rebirth of 1910. They have agents at work and frequent meetings in the theater, quite like party organizations in the United States.

Educational reforms, covering not only free elementary instruction for all, but establishing schools of industries and fine arts, are given first choice in the Juarez club platform.

A curious demand is for the restoration of the old free trade zone—a strip along the Mexican side of the border where all foreign products used to enter free. This was abolished over twenty years ago at the demand of the merchants of Zacatecas and other trade centers of those times. The program states that all the tariff ever did was to kill business in Juarez by driving the merchants to El Paso.

The national issues taken up in the later elections will include agrarian reform, dealing with the distribution of land among the peons, and the division of the old land grants. Equalization of taxes, public education, the one-term rule for all elective office holders, and a genuine separation of executive and judiciary, by which political pressure will be removed from the courts, have also been endorsed in one form or another by most of the political clubs in Mexico.

HUGHES RESTS, THEN DEPARTS FOR SOUTH

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—Charles E. Hughes spent Sunday resting in St. Louis and left tonight for Nashville, Tenn. He is due to reach there tomorrow morning and will address a night meeting there. He will be his first speech in a southern city since the nomination.

Mr. Hughes had luncheon and dinner with William H. Wilcox, Republican national chairman.

The nominee devoted some time today in a perusal of President Wilson's speech

PRESIDENT SIGNS ADAMSON BILL; WILL SIGN AGAIN

Stops at Capital on Way From New Jersey to Kentucky

LANE SECRETARY NO CEREMONIES Federations Will Now Watch for Railroads to Make Move

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The Adamson eight hour day bill, enacted from Congress last week by the railroad brotherhoods as the price of a link of the nation wide strike ordered for tomorrow, was signed by president Wilson today in his private car at the Union station where he stopped on his way from shadow Lawn, N. J. to Hodgenville, Ky.

That there may be no question as to the legality of the measure as a result of it having been signed on Sunday, the President will affix his signature again when he returns to the Whitehouse next Tuesday.

How long peace shall reign as a result of the bill is dependent upon developments in the proposed test of the constitutionality of the act. Should the railroads take no action, but should the workings of the 8-hour day by the special commission for which the measure provides, the brotherhoods will remain inactive. The employees' leaders declare, however, that should the bill be held unconstitutional, and the railroads attempt to restore the ten-hour day on their lines a strike will follow promptly.

None of the brotherhood leaders witnessed the signing of the bill. They had expected, according to tentative arrangements made by Secretary Wilson last night, to be present, but the President decided to attend to the business at the railroad station. The four pens used by the President in signing the bill—one for each syllable of his name—were presented to the four brotherhoods, A. B. C. and D. W. G. Lee, W. S. Carter and W. S. Stone, after being used for re-signing the bill on Tuesday.

No ceremony attended the signing today. Rudolph Forrester, assistant secretary to the president, took the bill to the train. The chief group of trainmen in their overall uniforms in their work song enough to watch the President write his name. An engineer, passing on a yard engine, celebrated the occasion with several prolonged blasts of his whistle.

The President also signed several commissions and executive papers, and sent Secretary Tamm to Majority Leader Kern of the Senate to urge passage of the Webb bill, passed yesterday by the house, designed to permit American firms to export goods to foreign countries without violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

It developed today that the brotherhoods before summoned to Washington by President Wilson, had agreed to call a strike effective August 20. The orders then drafted were used when the strike finally was set for Labor Day.

The strike date, September 1, was filled in with a rubber stamp, but the original date of the call, August 14, was not changed. The members of the brotherhoods today. Most of them were congratulatory. One or two were from locals who had received no notice that the strike was off, so tomorrow morning in some few scattered sections of the country there may be a temporary display of peace.

Efforts were being made tonight to communicate with all of these points. A circular letter, drafted by W. G. Lee and giving the complete details of negotiations since August 1, as well as a copy of the Adamson bill, was being sent to all members of the brotherhoods tonight.

Among other railroad men who departed from Washington early today was a delegation of the Order of Railway Conductors from the northwest who came here yesterday to protest to Mr. Carranza against a strike. They arrived about the same time the Senate was in the last stages of passing the bill which will give them ten hours' pay for eight hours' work and called on Garretson. He declined today to discuss the conference.

BELIEVE ACCUSED PASTOR IS INNOCENT

Congregation Votes to Return Minister Facing Statutory Charge

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 3.—Believing firmly in the innocence of the Rev. Arvid Wright, who was arrested during the week on a charge of committing a statutory offense against 14-year-old Barbara Bernhardt, a member of the First Congregational church at Hansen, Ariz., at the conclusion of services this morning and voted to return the accused pastor to his pulpit.

Rev. Wright resigned his pastorate immediately following his arrest, although maintaining his innocence. He was held in the county jail for a day until his release, under $2500 bonds, furnished by two of his parishioners.

Following the action of the congregation this morning, a committee was sent to the pastor's home. In accepting the pastor's action, Rev. Wright thanked his flock for their faith in him and declared he was confident of vindication in his case comes to trial. He will be given a preliminary hearing Tuesday.

of acceptance and conferred with Chairman Wilcox over portions of it. Most of the conference, however, was devoted to planning the itinerary of the trip.

ACCUSE PRISONER OF STEALING U. S. MILITARY MAPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The theft of secret military maps of the United States was said to have been disclosed tonight when agents who recovered them accused the prisoner, Sauer, in jail here at stealing them from coast guard officers. The maps were recovered in a rooming house in Baltimore, where Sauer lived.

13 ZEPPELINS RAID ENGLAND

One Airship Is Brought Down Near London; Few Casualties

ONDON, Sept. 3, 2:35 p. m.—Thirteen Zeppelin airships took part in the raid over the eastern coast last night, and an official statement issued this afternoon says it was the most formidable attack by airmen on England. Only three of the ships were able to approach the outskirts of London. One of these was shot down and the other two were driven off by aircraft guns and aeroplanes.

Reports regarding the number of casualties and the damage caused by the great number of bombs dropped had not been completed this afternoon, but it was stated that the damage and loss of life were not heavy, "considering the number of ships engaged."

The text of the official statement said: "Last night's raid was carried out by thirteen airships, and thus was the most formidable attack that had been made on this country. The principal theater of operations was the eastern coast and the objectives seem to have been London and certain industrial centers in the Midlands were targeted."

"Reduction or obscuration of lights proved most efficacious for the raiding squadrons instead of steering a steady course, as in the raids of the spring and of last autumn, groined about in darkness looking for a safe avenue to approach their objectives."

"Three airships only were able to approach the outskirts of London. One of them appeared over the northern district about 2:15 o'clock in the morning, where she was picked up by searchlights and engaged by anti-aircraft guns and aeroplanes. Soon the airship was seen to burst into flames and fall to earth."

"The ship was destroyed, the wreckage, engines and half burned bodies of the crew being found at Cuffley, near Enfield."

"The large amount of wood employed in the framework of the Zeppelin is startling and would seem to point to a shortage of aluminum in Germany."

"The other two ships which approached London were driven off without being able to approach the center of the city."

"A great number of bombs were dropped promiscuously over the east Anglian and southeastern counties. Reports in hand indicate that the damage done by the bombs was not heavy, a great number of the bombs having fallen either into the sea or in remote country districts."

FRANCISCO MADERO, SR., FOUND DEAD IN BED

Father of Late Mexican President Had Accumulated Large Fortune

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Francisco Madero, father of the late President Madero of Mexico, was found dead in bed here today from heart disease. He was 65 years old.

Mr. Madero fled to this city after the assassination of his two sons, Francisco, Jr., then President of Mexico, and Gustavo, who had been financial agent of the revolution.

The family estate, said to have been valued at $1,000,000, was largely in land holdings of land in Northern Mexico, were confiscated by the Huerta government, but three weeks ago the Carranza government informed Mr. Madero that his property would be restored to him.

Mr. Madero was born in Parras, Coahuila. He accumulated his fortune through investments in farm lands and in mining and banking.

Mr. Madero's widow was Mercedes Gonzalez Trevino, member of a prominent and wealthy family in Monterrey. They were married 42 years ago. Their ten children were born to them, eleven of whom are living.

The body will be taken to Mexico for burial.

FIRE DESTROYS TWO BUILDINGS AT STATE FAIR; WILL REOPEN

Sky Rocket Falls on Roof of Pavilion; Loss About $100,000; No One Hurt in Panic

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 3.—The main exhibit pavilion at the State fair grounds, the annex and the group of concessions known as the Midway, were wiped out by fire which broke out in the annex at 9:05 o'clock last night. The fire which burned fiercely for an hour, was confined to these three buildings and the field south of the pavilion. The grand stand, which stood comparatively close to the pavilion was saved after a hard fight. The monetary loss, according to Chas. W. Paine, secretary of the State Agricultural Society, will be only about $75,000 for the buildings. The value of the exhibits, according to Paine, is nominal.

In spite of the loss of one of the main attractions of the fair it will open at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. "I'll be here," said Governor Johnson, as he watched the fire, "and I hope everyone else in Sacramento will turn out."

A skyrocket falling on the roof of the annex is said to be the cause of the fire. Within ten minutes after the blaze was discovered, the annex had fallen in, and the whole roof of the pavilion was ablaze. A general fire alarm had been turned in, but the first engine arrived ten minutes after the alarm rang. No sufficient water supply could be secured. The fair grounds are supplied by the Park Water Company, a private corporation, and to get water the engine company was forced to lay two lines of hose 300 feet long to the city pipes.

Fortunately few spectators remained in the building, nearly all had gone out to view the fireworks display. The visitors and the employees in charge of the exhibits quickly made their way to safety. Within half an hour three walls had fallen and the fourth went down before 10 o'clock.

The grand stand, which was filled with spectators at the time the fire broke out, was emptied by a stampede over benches and every other avenue to the ground. Impromptu fire fighters who attached garden hose to the standpipes in the vicinity, put a dozen small blazes in the dry timbers of the grand stand before the fire companies arrived.

Order was preserved through the efforts of the company of engineers, California National Guard, now encamped at the fair grounds awaiting orders to move to the Mexican border.

Tractricators in the main exhibit pavilion or in the annex were saved. Two dogs were burned to death in one of the concessions, but all the other animals escaped. In the main pavilion were housed the county exhibits and the displays entered at the fair by Japan, New Zealand, Australia and other colonies. One exhibitor, who had a collection of rare German coins, saved four of his five cases by a dash into the blading building, carrying out two in each arm.

LAREDO, Texas, Sept. 3.—Municipal elections were held throughout Mexico today, and so far no disorders are reported. Returns will be slow in coming in. A decree issued by the government instructed the governors of the various states and military officers not to interfere with the ballot.

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 3.—With the holding of local elections today throughout Mexico as the first step in re-establishing civil government, Juarez voted for mayor today. It was the first election since the overthrow of Madero and the people made a holiday of it. There were two candidates for mayor, with practically the same platform.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 3.—At the municipal election held here today only 10 per cent of the voters took advantage of their newly gained rights. Domingo Reyes, representing the Mexican confederation of labor, was elected mayor. He polled a total vote of 455.

SOCIETY COMPELS LABOR TO UNITE

Declares Paul Scharrenberg in Discussing Union Conditions

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Paul Scharrenberg, secretary of the State Federation of Labor explained the purpose of the "closed shop" from the viewpoint of its supporters, at a luncheon of the Commercial Club here yesterday. His address was the outcome of a recent declaration by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce for "open shop" conditions, under which it was stated, men would be employed without reference to union affiliation.

"The open shop," Scharrenberg said, "is an attempt to maintain a disorganized element in the midst of a society all other elements of which are fully organized."

In actual practice, the employer, even though he may be well disposed toward his employees, is governed by laws more inexorable than the laws of humanity. He is forced to limit the cost of labor in order to meet the terms of his competitors. The union being established, the organized employer burglarizes the unorganized individual workman, and the latter, who would get the better of such a struggle, is forced to join the union.

The open shop protects the workman in his constitutional right to remain defenseless, in the face of those who would exploit him.

"The closed shop—that is, the union shop—is the true open shop, a shop open to every workman upon an ample condition, namely, that he shall join with his fellows in organizing as a necessity to protection in an organized world."

Mr. Scharrenberg quoted building statistics to show that the closed shop did not increase building costs, and declared that the "union shop" stands for stability and progress in the construction of industry.

Things are settling down since the primary," said Campaign Manager Jon S. Crain yesterday. "As soon as we move to the larger quarters our working force will be busy, and our organization will be greatly augmented. Already a large number of persons have called and offered their services and were never in Johnson headquarters before. There are not only welcomed but they will be sent to work."

AMERICAN KILLED OVER THE BORDER

Posse From California Side Seeks Slaying of Rancher

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 3.—Word was received here today of the murder of Albert Davies, an American, at his ranch thirty miles below the border by an unknown Mexican, for whom a posse, hastily assembled at Campo, Cal., made a futile search for many hours. The man-hunt extended for many miles around the Mexican ranch. One of the Indians brought word of the murder to Campo this morning and a posse of Campo citizens, friends of Davies, sent a watch on the border and then crossed the line into Lower California, continuing their search without result.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 3.—Chilean naval students from the northern Pacific coast were enroute north today on the cruiser San Orleans via San Francisco, where shore leave will be granted Tuesday morning. The New Orleans departed yesterday following general inspection by the commanding officer.

Gospel Themes In Fresno Churches

God Source of All Well Being

—Bethel Danish Lutheran.

Rev. E. S. Rosenberg

The parable of the Pharisee and the Publican was taken as the basis of the sermon delivered yesterday morning at Bethel Danish Lutheran church by Rev. E. S. Rosenberg, who spoke in part as follows:

Luke 18:9-14: "By the grace of God I am what I am; and His Grace which was bestowed upon me was not found vain." Thus the former Pharisee Paul exclaims to the Corinthians. He knows and judged himself and his life, he knows what he is and what has been the dominating power in his life, to-wit: the grace of God.

God Source of All Good

It is well to acknowledge that all that we are and possess has its source in the grace of God. There are many who seem to have no idea about the source of their well being and are void of thanks to God.

The one of the two church guests about which our text treats has no conception of the grace of God. Therefore he has no need to receive anything from God, and this is why his words of God cannot be accused of being a prayer. Rather he is telling God how far he has advanced his life.

The Publican, on the contrary, has rendered his life's account, and it has shown a great deficit. He has only one thing to do, praying to God for mercy. He is not very eloquent in his plea, and it seems to be true in the most cases of need. He can only utter, "God, be thou merciful to me, a sinner."

Significance of Parable

But in looking a little closer at the parable, it seems especially aimed at certain ones who trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and set all others at naught. The essence of prayer must be guided by a humble mind, showing one's lack of power to help himself, as well as right to demand it as one's due from God—trusting only in the unfathomable and inexhaustible free grace of God. Where this mind is lacking there is a person on the road leading away from faith and prayer and must come to trust in himself and set all others at naught. The false righteousness pride was one of the very first things our Lord taught in His parable as He outlined it in the sermon on the Mount.

Attitudes of Two Men
The two churchgoers, then, went up into the temple for the same purpose, to the service which was common every day in the Jewish temple, and here they attended the sacrifice. But the Pharisee is not gripped by the attitude of service. Neither does he create any knowledge within him of personal sin, nor any prayer for the grace of God and His mercy.

We have reason to ask what a churchgoer in our time brings with him when he attends the church service, and what he carries with him home after the visit to the house of the Lord. Let me earnestly advise that you bring all your troubles and perplexing questions and all your desires to the house of worship, where the Word of God is proclaimed, and as sure as it has guided before, it shall light up your path and you shall carry home convictions and resolutions that shall strengthen you in your daily toil.

We get an idea about the Publican's state of mind when we read that he was standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven. His conscience was struck and he utters the broken hearted cry, "God, be thou merciful to me, a sinner." That was sufficient for the merciful God. The Publican went home a justified man, and he certainly carried home with him a blessed remembrance from his visit to church.

In order to imitate the prayer of the Publican, you must see the deficit in your life. You cannot use the measurement common in the world—it is not the standard. God should be the center in our life. Whenever this measure is used, you will be able to see the deficit. It is with such an accounting you must start, however painful it be. A human life was born without pain. A living prayer about the grace of God is neither born without pain.

The grace of God is worth while. I dare say it is the strongest power on earth, able to build up and destroy. The one who has met the Lord here can go out into the world meeting his fellowmen with an inextinguishable power and be a blessing and spirit pray. "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us."

The Homes Our Nation Needs

—Unitarian.

Rev. C. Ruess

The first sermon of the prolept series entitled "True Preparedness—What Shall America Do to Be Strong?" was delivered yesterday morning by Rev. Christopher Ruess of the Unitarian church.

The title of the first of the "prolept" series was entitled "The Homes Our Nation Needs," the speaker holding a brief for a true and scientific view of marriage and raising of children. Rev. Ruess spoke in part as follows:

Physical View of Marriage

Dr. Jewett, the translator of Plato, comments Dr. Combe for never marrying because there was tuberculosis in his family, and says that for one man with this conscientiousness there are nine hundred and ninety-nine who lack it. I have a young man once who, approaching marriage, voluntarily procured for his betrothed and presented to her a clean bill of health from a good physician. Has any man or woman a right to marry and bring children into the world who cannot begeth and then sound bodies? The better sentiment of our days says, No. But the laws for health certificates as a preliminary to marriage licenses have not always received the unselfish and public spirited support of physicians which they should receive. Perhaps the state will one day pay the expense in public protection, but until that time physicians should cooperate to make such laws a success and not insist that the legally allowed fee is too small. In fact, without such laws at all, would it not show the finest professional spirit if the ministers and doctors of our country would get together and the doctors agree for a nominal fee to give the examinations and the ministers not to marry the couples without clean bills of health. It is not merely the usually named hereditary diseases, but tuberculosis, hereditary insanity and other conditions which the new social conscience in regard to marriage must consider.

Marriage a Social Institution

This is only the physical view of marriage. There is also the scientific view, the view of marriage as a social institution. Society has swung from the extreme of social despotism over the individual life in marriage to the other extreme, it sometimes seems, of considering the individual as too important. Hence the free love notions of our day, which forget that society is concerned in marriage. We need not so much stricter laws to prevent divorce, but more work at the other end to make marriage itself more serious and not just a sport, or whim, or excursion. From my knowledge of family tragedies, and from the opinion of divorce judges, I am inclined to believe that the time is near when we shall require two or three months public notice of intention to marry, unless a superior judge shall grant a less period, or an immediate marriage for good reasons shown in public hearing in open court. Perhaps there will be a booklet on Marriage in its relation to the state and to the rights of children to be given to all who would be married and to be studied by them with an examination prior to the granting of a marriage license.

The Five-Fold Aspect

Marriage must be considered in its five-fold aspect, however, to be understood in its relations to real national preparedness, inward strength, its trust be considered in its physical, its commercial, its scientific, its aesthetic or romantic, and its moral and spiritual aspects. If any one of these aspects is left out we are doing second-class thinking upon this greatest of personal and national problems at all times.

Both religion and science point to the Christian ideal of monogamy, one man choosing one woman, one woman choosing one man, for life, with loyalty to a self-imposed choice through all hardships and misunderstandings, as after all the true ideal, with divorce, while sometimes necessary, always a terrible and a tragic thing.

"TANGLED THREADS", TOPIC OF REV. BEAL

Speaks to Men in Park Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

"Many lives are embittered by circumstances," Rev. Charles Beal told the men of the Court House Park yesterday afternoon, "and it is a puzzle to many of us just why things are so. At times the world seems but a mass of tangled threads which cannot be unwound. It is at such times that man should have faith in God, for faith in Him who made these things will clear away all doubts and misunderstandings."

"Tangled Threads" was the title that had been announced, Rev. Beal, who is pastor of the North Side

Pharisee Words Not Sufficient

—Union Service.

Dr. J. Harvey Deere

Dr. J. Harvey Deere, pastor of the First Baptist Church, spoke at the closing service of the summer series of union meetings in Court House Park last night, choosing as his subject, "Outgoing the Pharisees." In the main, Dr. Deere spoke as follows: Emerson was right when he said the name of Christ has not been woven into the history of the world. In part this is due to his love of the genuine and his hatred of the false.

Text A Personal One

As searching as this text is I must confess that I like it. It is personal. It puts the case square up to each of us. It sets a standard. I have read of a lad whose bantam chickens laid eggs of varying small sizes. He hit upon a method to change the eggs. Imagine the father's surprise when upon entering the chicken house the next day he saw a big ostrich egg suspended near the roost, with these words on a card attached: "Keep your eye on this and no year best." In the language of the text Jesus says to measure the Pharisee's standard of righteousness and then go on beyond it.

Realm of Religion

Religion must move in a visible realm. We must build churches, make public prayers, give to charity, keep Sunday sacred, send our children to church, and go ourselves. But all these things we may do and still be as guilty as the Pharisees. The heart must go with the hand. Righteous deeds are important, but righteousness being in all essential. The heart life must be cleansed and kept. Otherwise we are nothing beyond the Pharisees, and our destiny cannot differ from theirs.

In its nature must our righteousness exceed theirs not less than in its origin. It must be sincere. We are not to the man, professing Christian or not, to whom the Master's words apply—"Whited sepulchre, beautiful without, rottenness within." But so long as there are the genuine we may also expect the false. The pulch of manners will evermore cover up the pollution of morals. So long as there are Johns there will still be Judases. For the false to feign the true is Phariseism, and it cannot win the Kingdom of heaven.

Hypocrisy a Losing Game

The Pharisees were adept at covering up and so are the sons of their descendants. But it is a losing game. If time fails to remove the veneer eternity will. The ship of a painted righteousness will be seen as it is on the great ocean of the future. Therefore, I call you each to the sincerity that breathes the prayer, noble lines of Homer Micke's prayer, "Teach me that sixty minutes make one hour, sixteen pence one pound, and one hundred cents one dollar."

"Grant, I beseech thee, that I may earn my meal ricker on the square, and in doing thereof that may not stick the staff where it does not belong."

"Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts."

"Bind me to the faults of others, but reveal to me mine own."

"Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal."

"And when I smell the smell of flowers and tread of soft steps, and the crushing of the bearded wheels in the soft grave out in front of my place, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple: Here Lies a Man."

At the gates of Eden we find the entrance guarded by cherubim and flaming sword, the first a symbol of mercy, the second a symbol of justice. So at the gate of the Kingdom of God tonight justice says, "You have sinned and you are doomed." Mercy says, "You have sinned but in Christ the doom is put away." Justice says, "You are a prodigal in the far country, dwelling among swine, living on husks." Mercy says, "True, but repent, or your waywardness and the Father is ready to name and to greet you with a kiss of forgiveness. Jesus says, 'You are a sinner and heaven's gate is closed.' Mercy says, 'Come in the Christ and heaven's gate will open.'"

STARTING UP SCHOOL IN RUSSIAN POLAND

German Lieutenant Tells of His Experiences in War Area

(By Continental Press Association)
WARSZAWA.—The General School News, a daily newspaper for the County of Wroclaw, Germany, publishes the story of a Russian school teacher who, while serving as a lieutenant at the Eastern front, has organized a school at Wolkowysk, a town of 500 inhabitants in Russian Poland.

"On November 12 of last year," says the teacher in his account of the new school, "I received orders to organize a school of several classes at Wolkowysk, and went to work immediately after a conference with the police and the mayor in the town. It seemed impossible at first to find a building that would be large enough for the purpose. But I finally found an abandoned house of a cattle dealer, surrounded by a large pond, and I decided to use the spacious building for the schoolhouse. The next difficulty was to procure books for the pupils, but after a thorough search a large number was found in the attic of a former private Jewish school. At the same place I found some blackboards and other school furnishings."

The school was pretty well in shape to start the first day, and lessons began November 16. The pupils at first came very irregularly, but their number steadily increased. There were about two hundred boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 14 years of age. Notably among the youngsters pushed to the front of the line, a Khatoloscopolian boy, named in the most interesting way, was much sturdier, but there was much stupidity, but there was a pair of bright eyes to be seen in the class, and which meant that there were in the class many valuable mental powers asleep, which were waiting to be awakened and developed.

This school has shown good results already, especially if one considers the short time of its existence. The children in the German class show great interest. At first among the pupils there was much stupidity, but there was a pair of bright eyes to be seen in the class, and which meant that there were in the class many valuable mental powers asleep, which were waiting to be awakened and developed.

HONOR TO LABOR

Never since the Garden of Eden have men been asked to do what is a blessing or a curse. But we know that it is only by labor that humanity is able to win its bread, and humanity must make, among itself, a way to that labor shall be performed.

Perhaps it is regrettable that special effort should be made to make labor "honorable." If all men worked, as they should, there would be a dignity about that which would be understood, rather than expressed. May there come the day when the only excuse from performing an equitable share in the toll of existence shall be a capacity for doing a greater good to humanity than that of physical exertion.

JOIN THE CARAVAN!

It does not appear at this writing just how much damage was done by fire at the State Fair buildings at Sacramento; and we trust that there is enough left to allow the completion of the program of the week. But in any case, we sincerely hope that the people of Fresno and the San Joaquin Valley will carry out the Caravan that has been planned for this coming Thursday and Friday. We owe it as a measure of good will to the people of Sacramento who have invited us. The trip in itself will be sufficient reward, and the welcome at that end will be a super-added pleasure. Join the caravan, next Thursday, and go to Sacramento!

FRESNO NORMAL

Next Monday, the faculty and student body of the Fresno State Normal school will take possession of the building that has been erected for their use in the northern suburbs of this city. This is an occasion for pleased recollection of the efforts of educators and citizens here and throughout the San Joaquin Valley, which have resulted in the upbuilding of an institution of which all Central California can be proud. While the dedication of the structure will not take place until sometime in October, next, and while the Fresno Normal school has been a thriving institution for some four years now, the act of taking formal possession of the building is in itself an epochal occasion. It marks the consummation of much hope and labor, much patient and persistent effort in pursuit of an educational ideal for Central California.

It is now some fifteen years since the pioneer work was begun for a normal school here. It is eight years since the first committee of educators and other citizens from this part of the state presented their claims to the education and finance committees of the state legislature. Fresno was not alone in asking for the establishment of the school. Committees from King, Tulare, Madera and counties farther away were heard in its behalf. The need of a school in Central California was keenly felt. Up to that time, young people desiring training for teachers usually had to go to San Jose, if not farther, for their courses. The co-operation of the Valley for Fresno at that time has been justified by the patronage of the school. Since its establishment, it has grown at a very rapid rate, drawing more heavily from its adjacent population than has any other state school of the kind, and with an attendance almost exclusively from the Valley. Central California needed the school and has given it support accordingly.

The best efforts of a carefully chosen faculty have been given to making the construction of this building especially effective for institutional work. There has been sufficient, but not too much, attention given to esthetic surroundings. There has been a careful consideration given to rapid handling of classes in lecture and laboratory. Health and comfort and proper mental environment have been given attention. When, next month, Governor Johnson, the president of the University of California and Stanford, the members of the state board of education and other visitors join with normal school trustees and the faculty in dedicating the building to a long career of usefulness, it will be appropriate for Fresno to rejoice once again that it has been made the site for this institution for the training of the teachers of future citizens.

SINCERITY FIRST

It appears that a woman citizen of Fresno who has a house for rent discovered that her tenant was dishonest. A brewing concern. She was one of those who are opposed to the liquor business. She gave notice that she desired her tenant to abandon possession in one month's time. The tenant has taken his troubles to the Sacramento Bee, in which the correspondence between owner and tenant is published, together with an editorial in which the incident is catalogued as "a sample of Christianity from the city of Fresno."

Perhaps we are a little sensitive about this subject because we are from Fresno and not from Sacramento, and therefore, feel certain—we have but one brewery in our town, whereas Sacramento has two. But we cannot help feeling that the wrong done to the brewery agent by being ejected from his rented home is but an excuse for hanging therein some of friend Editor's tart opinion about prohibition in general. He and the tenant lady discuss the wrong of violating a brewery agent out of a job, which apparently has nothing to do with the tenancy of the house, or with a personal difference as to whether Christianity does or does not prohibit liquor-selling. In fact, since the editor of the Bee makes some profession of human as well as Christian principles himself, we think the sneer on Christianity in Fresno somewhat ill-made.

Supposing, for example, that the lady in question should have accepted her tenant's patronage without comment, banking the money regularly from month to month. Supposing that she should, as is her right, have publicly and frequently expressed her disapproval of the business of selling liquor. Supposing that she had imposed by voice and pen the liquor business, in Sacramento, would not the Bee, if made certain of the facts, have denounced the lady for inconsistency? Would not the hypocrisy of accepting money from a man in the liquor business while talking against that business have been the occasion for an even more powerful editorial than this on "a sample of Christianity in Fresno?"

In fact, the lady who refused to take from a tenant money which she felt to be unclean, should be honored by wet or dry advocate, for there are too few of that kind. We have plenty of the other. There are several houses for rent in Fresno. There is no objection against the gentlemen. The brewery agent can easily get another home. The owner may not easily get as good a tenant. She is probably inflicting a much greater loss on herself than on him. And the Bee is getting unduly excited over one woman's concept of Christianity. Sincerity is nearly as important a moral quality as charity, and in this case more nearly indispensable.

NOT ORDERED BY CHIEF OF POLICE

Editor Republican: In your report and account of the preparations for the labor day parade in Sunday's issue, you make the assertion that the chief of police issued orders to every saloon proprietor in Fresno to close their places of business during the parade as a precaution against rowdism. Realizing that you have always been fair minded enough to correct mistakes which often occur in journalism, we feel confident that you will afford the same courtesy to the Fresno labor union, comprising 100 members, were invited to participate in the parade as the courtesy of two hours off in order to parade. A canvass was then made of the proprietors, with the result that every one of them willingly and gladly consented to our request. This was merely a request, not a demand from this union, and certainly was not the result of any order from the police department, as will be vouched for by Chief Goching himself.

STEVE SHERLOCK
Barbers UnionDOG DAYS IDEA
FOUNDED ON MYTH

With heat oppressive and discomforting, certain to leave its mark on the summer months, so certain is it that local authorities of townships the country over will give themselves for the mad dog, which seldom, if ever, comes the way. This mad preparedness for the "dog days" is an established custom, apparently as inalienable as it is without rhyme or reason. Rabbits have no season's preference, winter or summer, spring or autumn, it is in fact, a kind of ground, will not. Our grandmothers, however, talked of "dog days" as did their grandmothers. Therefore the myth must be kept rolling on from generation to generation, despite common sense and the fallacy of it all.

Few persons have seen a rabid dog, few even kill. Those who have will never forget it, or ever make it far from their minds. Tortured, such as it is, the hazy days of Nuremberg could not surpass it. And it is for this reason a rabid dog avoids, not "courts" contact. Solitude and escape from the hellish torment which grips him are his only desires. He snarls at the victim. He snarls at the victim in his way from sheer dread of the pain of contact.

Returning to the subject of "dog days," this is more prevalent than at any other season. The chief reason for this is that more litters of pups are born in early spring than at any other period. This means that there are more teething puppies during the hot spell than at any other time of the year. Puppies suffer from their teeth as do children. Puppies teethe by gnawing their objects of appetite. It is awkward, and taken all in all, a teething puppy is tossed up to a pitch where he would jump at a shadow or be scared out of his wits at a rustling leaf.

In this condition he is taken out, or gets out, into the hot sun. Some of his teeth are sharp and he is full of darting teeth and thistles, and the accompaniment of short, sharp yaws. As most people are both to handle a strange dog in his tender senses, few are inclined to grab by the scruff of the neck an apparently mad dog. The only alternative is to let the unfortunate start somewhere out of the light, a cellar or a cupboard. Once in a dark place the fit will subside, in all probability, in a few minutes. When it does, leave the stricken one to himself for half an hour, and unless he is again unduly excited he will probably prove his first and last offense. If the fit should recur, bromide of potassium shaken on the tongue, a grain for a dog the size of a fox terrier and a grain for a puppy, should give the desired effect, or at all events a repetition of the dose should be given only between spasms.—New York Herald.

Forests and Dry Weather

Have Drouths Increased as the Land is Cleared for Cultivation?

By Willis L. Moore, Sc.D., LL.D.

Professor Meteorology, George Washington University; formerly Chief U. S. Weather Bureau

Do you believe that the turning of forest areas into cultivated fields, pastures, vineyards and orchards, and the subjugation of the wilderness to the needs of civilization has prolonged drouths or harmfully altered the climate?

Many believe that unless large areas are returned to forest conditions that part of the North American continent occupied by the United States will suffer from drought and drouth of steadily increasing intensity. It has been stated that the climate is so materially affected by the cutting away of the forests that the well-being of future generations is menaced. The public conscience has been aroused. Large expenditures of money have been made for the purchase of water sheds and reforestation and plans laid that will lead into the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars.

But may it not be that in our righteous indignation at the monopolization of much of the nation's wealth of land, of forest, of mine, and of water power, and in our anxiety to formulate sound plans and laws for the future, we have accepted as established truth the unsupported statements of honest but mistaken forest-enthusiasts? The praying of our ground as we go along does not mean that we shall not progress; it means that we shall make in the right direction, instead of wasting time and money in the following of a policy based upon fallacious reasonings.

There appears to be plenty of evidence that there have been times in the remote past when the soil, seas, both of Asia and of America, had areas of greatly increased size over those that now exist. In certain of these regions trees grew more abundantly than is now the case. This however must not be taken as proof that there has been a decrease in rainfall due to destruction of forest. In fact, the forests have been destroyed, and it is true that the evidence strongly supports the assumption of a decrease in rainfall, and therefore, of course, of a greater or less change in climate. But this decrease in rainfall might better be regarded as the cause rather than the result of the barren condition of these great areas. In no evidence that the forests have ever been more extensive in Alaska and other high-latitude countries, too, just as in arid regions of the great continents, there is evidence of the same slow, long period climatic change that cannot be due to destruction of forest. The evidence consists in the slow, irregular retreat and diminution of the glaciers, which phenomena is universal, regardless of latitude, and of elevation and which appears to have been in more or less steady progress since the beginning of the great ice age. In fact we may reasonably say that we are still in the ice age, a vanishing age to be sure, but one not wholly gone.

Unmistakable evidence is found of the existence of extensive forests in Arizona and New Mexico, where the trunks of petrified trees now remain. It cannot be said that now removed these trees and brought on the drouth. The fact that dead forests stand long after the streams have receded clearly proves that they are the last to disappear rather than the first, and therefore that their removal did not precede the drouth. But that the forests ceased to exist when the rainfall became deficient. Great cities and teeming populations once covered the valley of the Jordan in the Holy Land, which is now barren. But the date palm, the vine and the fig tree will grow there as luxuriantly today as in the old biblical days, if sufficient watering were practiced, as it was then.

Many have been deceived by the fact that rain-gauges exposed just above the trees in forest areas catch more rain than similar gauges exposed at the same height in open places. But this is due to the fact that trees restrict the flow of wind, and gauges always catch more water with a given rainfall when the velocity is retarded.

The erection of a tent, of a barn, of a dwelling house, of a village, or the growth of a great city, respectively, influence the local climate in proportion to the area covered. Likewise the vegetable covering of the earth may have a local appreciable effect. That

SOME FAMOUS DEATH MESSAGES

Napoleon's Delirium Equaled the Imagery of Great Poets.

We listen with bated breath to the last words of dying people. Why we do it is difficult to explain. Can we expect a revelation of truth from a brain disorganized by illness and agony? The dying man still belongs to this earth; he is still fettered by bonds of flesh, still weighted down by the burden of the body. If we were being guided by an inexorable logic we should declare that these last utterances are without any value.

There is a popular theory that in his last moment the moribund sees his whole life spread out before him like a panorama. So we hope against the objections of reason that our dying relative or friend may let us share this moment of enlightenment and give us the meaning of life in an epigram.

Christ is his last words gave a real quintessence of His personality. Pericles encompassed the meaning and value of life in one sentence: "On account of my never an Athenian has put on mourning." In myth and legend great men die according to their lives and characters.

Napoleon had at first a solemn leave-taking, during which he talked like a soldier. "I have done justice to all fundamental truths. . . . Be faithful to the glory we obtained." Then he became feverish and he called on the generals, the old ones, not those of the latter epoch: "Desaix, Massena, ah! . . . the moment is decisive. . . . hurry up, push on, attack. . . . France in arms. . . . At the head of the army. . . . No poet could have done better."

Frederick the Great was working to the last minute. His last words spoken in French, were: "La montagne est passe. . . . nous sommes vaincus." (We have reached the top of the mountain, now it will go better.)

William I, one day before his death, when he gave his last signature, said: "I have no time to be tired, and these simple words are confirmed by the life that preceded them."

The other pole is marked by Nero's "Qualis artifex pereo!" (What an artist dies in me!)

Mozart, with a last glance at his gallery of pictures, sighed: "Faut-il donc quitter tout cela?" (Must I really leave all this?) A characteristic Italian expression.—Edward Goldbeck in the Chicago Tribune.

FOREST NOTES

The annual value of the farm wood products of the United States is over $135,000,000.

More people are spending their vacations on National Forests this summer than have ever done so before, many persons traveling long distances by automobile in order to camp in these public playgrounds.

The rabies epidemic which is carried by infected coyotes is spreading eastward in Utah. Rabid coyotes are common in the entire western part of the state, and one has been killed within thirty miles of Salt Lake City.

Tourist registers are in use on many of the National Forests. By registering their names and destination, persons going into the mountains can arrange to have telegrams and other important messages forwarded by the Forest Rangers.

Experiments at the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin, have resulted in the discovery of a method whereby the yields of alcohol and acetone from limbo from the destructive distillation of hardwoods have been increased fifteen per cent.—Forest Service Bulletin.

Luncheon at Commercial Club Tomorrow to Arrange to Take Part in Caravan to Big Fair

Members of the Commercial Club of this city will today receive invitations to attend the luncheon that will be given tomorrow noon at the club to make complete arrangements to take part in the automobile caravan that will be sent to Sacramento for San Joaquin Valley Day at the state fair. All members of the club are urged to attend this luncheon as it will be the first big gathering since the rooms have been repaired after the fire damage. The Commercial Club, in co-operation with the other civic organizations of the city and Valley, will send a big crowd to Sacramento. Short speeches will be made at the luncheon tomorrow. The members of the Commercial Club are going on the trip. The Chamber of Commerce, Fresno District Fair Association, Merchants Association and Traffic Association will send their directors and many members.

Sign Your Coupon
Many additional coupons were received at the Republican office yesterday and all who plan on going on the trip, no matter in what section of the Valley they reside, are urged to send the accompanying coupon and mail it once to the Republican office. This is done merely to get a check on the number of machines that will invade the Sacramento. Cities from south of Fresno are urged to start early enough so that they will reach here by 8 o'clock Thursday morning. The start will be made from the Republican promptly at 8 o'clock. The trip will be made on the state highway and stops will be made at all of the towns enroute so that additional machines can enter the caravan.

The Chamber of Commerce will take a drum corps to Sacramento and each town along the state highway will be serenaded. The State Fair Association has extended an invitation to the California Associated Raisin Company to send the Sun Maid band to Sacramento. Directors of the Association will be at the fairgrounds today. It is thought that about 20 machines will go on the trip. Many Fresno business houses are sending representatives to the trip.

Federal Bank Hearing
A hearing of prominent business men, bankers and farmers, who are going on the automobile trip, will be requested to stay in Sacramento Saturday and attend the hearing before the newly appointed Federal Farm Loan Board. The civic organizations are working for this bank but many Pacific Coast cities are seeking the federal bank and will make big representation at the hearing Saturday.

GREEN FRUIT MEN WILL START WORK

Picking Commenced and Cars Will Be Sent to Eastern Cities

Now that the strike has been averted and the embargoes have been lifted by the railroads, it is predicted that there will be much activity in the green fruit market and that shipping on a big scale will be started today or tomorrow. When news that the embargoes had been lifted was received in Fresno late Saturday afternoon, a few vineyardists started picking to work. It is not thought that the many cars of grapes will be ready for the eastern markets until Tuesday at the earliest.

Prices were very good at the close of the market last week in the east and now that the green fruit on hand has been cleaned out, shippers predict that good prices will prevail for the rest of the season, provided, however, the auction markets are not glutted.

LATEST IDEAS ARE EMBODIED IN NEW SCHOOL

Bullard School Built According to Best Theories

Will Serve as Rural Training Unit for Normal; Opens Monday

Considered by educational experts the embodiment of all the latest and best theories of rural school construction, the new Bullard school on Van Ness boulevard, near the Bullard townsite, is undergoing final preparations for the opening of the county schools on next Monday morning. The building at its completion will represent an expenditure of over $15,000, in place of the little old red school house, and the more recent and less ornamental one-room wooden building commonly seen at country roadides. This latest development of rural schools has the appearance from the road of a small country club or a private residence. The plan and arrangement of the four units of the school plant is according to the latest ideas of rural education, and is the result of years of planning by members of the education department of the Fresno state normal, Sturges & Swartz are the architects.

Tendency To Readjust
The latest tendency in modern rural education is to readjust the schools both as to curriculum and architecture, according to C. L. Phelps, vice president of the Fresno normal, whose idea is responsible for the building of the new school. "In order to fit the children of rural communities for life on the farm, it is the present tendency to offer instruction in practical courses to boys, such as very elementary electrical engineering, mechanics, manual training and general science, while domestic science and sewing are added to the regular three course of study for the benefit of the girls. As the average rural school building is unfitted for such courses by lack of rooms and equipment, it was the aim of the department of education of the normal to show how such a school could be constructed at reasonable cost," said Phelps yesterday. By securing the cooperation of the Bullard district school trustees, the normal faculty was able to demonstrate the latest ideas in rural education and rural school building in this school. It is believed by Professor Phelps that national attention will be attracted to the work of the school. Although some similar plans have been attempted in other parts of the state, none have been so thoroughly worked out, and no other building so complete according to the latest standards, it is said.

Normal Training School
In order that training may be given prospective rural teachers by actual teaching experience, the new Bullard school will serve as the rural training school unit of the Fresno state normal. About 24 normal students can be accommodated and give practical teaching in the school, and a class will be sent out from the new normal building every day. A fund has been secured for the transportation of the student-teachers. The Bullard school is just three miles from the normal school, on the carline to the river. Mrs. Edith Rosenthal, formerly of the Hawthorne school, will be the principal of the Bullard school, and will have the student teachers under her supervision. In keeping with the present day idea of the ideal rural school, a cottage for the teacher has been erected on the grounds. By arrangements with the Bullard district trustees the supervision of the school will be under the department of education of the state normal, of which C. L. Phelps is the head.

Three Separate Buildings
The school building proper consists of three separate units, connected by a pergola veranda. The center unit, that of the auditorium, which will serve as a communal meeting place for the residents of the district as well as for their school purposes. A stage occupies one end of the room; a piano is to be installed and the auditorium is wired for a moving picture machine. The seating capacity is about 150, and the hardwood floor will permit of dancing. The north wing of the building consists of a large, well lighted class

ONE DEAD, ANOTHER INJURED, IN COLLISION

George Kuchel Instantly Killed When Motorcycle Hits Car

W. S. Budge Badly Hurt; Poor Lights Are Blamed

George Kuchel of Escondido, a laborer on the Minnola vineyard, was instantly killed, and W. S. Budge, a fellow employee, was seriously injured about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, when a motorcycle they were riding collided with a service car of the Don Lee garage at Belmont and Chestnut avenues. The motor car was driven by Joe Paul.

The motorcycle was without lights, according to the witnesses, and while the motor car had four lamps lighted, they were exceptionally dim. Kuchel and his companion were returning to the vineyard. Occupants of the car claim they were traveling about 30 miles an hour. The impact of the collision hurled Kuchel through the windshield of the motor car, knocking Ben Francis and George Lee from the machine. Death was practically instantaneous. An examination showed that the skull was crushed and several ribs broken.

Budge, who was thrown to one side of the motorcycle, is suffering from a concussion of the brain, and lacerations and bruises about the limbs and head. Physicians at the county hospital say that he will recover.

Paul, with George Lee of the Don Lee garage, and Ben Francis of the Waternut garage, were returning from beyond the Barton vineyard, where they had been called to give aid to a motorist. They did not see or hear the approach of the motorcycle, until too late to stop the machine. None of the occupants of the car were badly hurt, though Lee and Francis received bruises when they were thrown from the car.

Kuchel was not identified until yesterday about noon, when it was learned that a sister, Mrs. Nellie M. Crise, lived in Escondido, a town near Los Angeles. Coroner W. A. Bean informed her of the tragic accident.

Kuchel and Budge had been employed for several weeks on the Minnola vineyard by E. A. Walrond. The inquest will probably be held today.

room, and adjoining a laboratory where work in agriculture, general science and manual training will be conducted. The south wing is similar, except that the adjoining laboratory is for domestic science and contains kitchen and pantry equipment that would delight the most critical housewife. A feature of the architecture is that additional class rooms may be added to either or both wings without destroying the symmetry of the building or the interior arrangements. In this way the building will better serve the community by being capable of expansion in keeping with its growth.

The buildings are of white plaster, with brick foundation and brick pillars, ornamented with a conventional design. The same general plan is carried out in the teacher's cottage, a complete five room shingle bungalow, with all modern improvements. Heat is supplied in the buildings by means of a radiating heating system that burns any sort of fuel. A separate building houses modern sanitary equipment, and a large septic tank is to be constructed for the plant.

Grading operations are now being rushed in order that everything may be in readiness for the opening date next Monday. It is planned to install cement walks, lawns and gardens. A triangular spot at the junction of two roads near the school will also be set out as a park. A huge flagpole will be installed in front of the building. The school is about five miles from town, and right opposite a car stop. It is believed that 50 to 60 children will enroll in the new school next Monday.

MASSONIC FUNERAL

Masons are requested to meet at the Temple at 8:15 Monday morning to attend the funeral of our late Brother Frank Rehorn.

TRUSTEES TO AWARD SEWER CONTRACT TOMORROW

Twenty-Five Will Probably Bid; Estimate of Cost Ready

Want More Firemen, Electrolier System and Grading

The awarding of a contract for the construction of storm and sanitary sewers, recently authorized by a special bond issue of a half million dollars, definite action upon the application of Fire Chief Wintemute for ten additional firemen to man the new apparatus, and the authorization for several small jobs of street and alley grading are the main issues to come before the city trustees tomorrow night.

It is believed that at least twenty-five firms will bid on the construction of the new sewer system. An estimate has been prepared by City Engineer E. E. Cronkite. In the event that none of the bids are below the estimate, Cronkite has stated that he would favor the city doing the work instead of letting an unfavorable contract.

Bids will be made on vitrified, plain concrete, reinforced concrete, common brick, radial interlocking brick and monolithic concrete pipe in the larger sizes. A complete list of the amounts and sizes of the main sewers and laterals follows:

Furnishing and laying 2549 feet of 14-inch sewer, 4068 feet of 20-inch sewer, 2892 feet of 24-inch sewer, 5558 feet of 27-inch sewer, 9143 feet of 30-inch sewer, 1580 feet of 36-inch sewer, 2400 feet of 42-inch sewer, 3500 feet of 48-inch sewer, 2662 feet of 54-inch sewer, and 23428 feet of 60-inch sewer and 57 manholes.

More Firemen
In his estimate for the fire department, Chief Wintemute included salaries for ten extra men, necessary to man the new fire apparatus. At present one of the two pumping engines and the new aerial truck are not in commission. It is anticipated that the trustees will authorize Chief Wintemute to employ the men.

The question of enlarging engine house No. 2 so as to permit the housing of the new aerial and provide quarters for the additional fireman will also come before the trustees.

The trustees will probably order work to begin on grading and macadamizing the alley of blocks 1-2-7, between Mariposa and Tulare and M and N streets. The work was petitioned. It will be the first alley to be macadamized.

Work will also be ordered for the macadamizing of South Angus street from Kern to Ventura, and the laying of a sewer in block 11 of the Page tract. A sewer is already in the tract, but as it is 24 feet below the ground level, it will be cheaper to those wishing to connect to install a new sewer system.

Electroliers
A resolution of intention will be brought up on the installing of electroliers on South I street from Inyo street to California avenue. It is estimated the work will cost about $3000. Bids will be received for a new roof for the city hall, and the matter of repainting and painting the interior of the building will be brought before the trustees for consideration.

OFFICERS RAID THREE PARLIER "BLIND PIGS"

Three Orientals Jailed for Illegal Liquor Selling; More to Follow

A raid on three "blind pigs" late last night dealt a severe blow to the liquor selling industry of Parlier and resulted in the incarceration in the county jail of Jew Tai, proprietor of a Chinese gambling house; M. Ikemura, Japanese restaurant keeper, and Quong Que, chief satellite of the Jew Tai establishment. It was intimated by the arresting officers last night that three other Orientals would fall into the official dragnet before morning.

Search warrants were drawn up by Constable J. D. Sayre of Parlier on information furnished to the district attorney's office. Sayre called for the assistance of the sheriff's office, and deputies Harkness, Vickers and Reitoras participated in the raid. Many gallons of "evidence" were secured by the arresting officers.

Over Toll House Grade In a Stock Chalmers Sealed In Second Gear

Five Passenger Chalmers Six 30, At Foot of Toll House Grade

The first five passenger motor car to climb the dusty, zig zag Toll House grade in second speed, is the honor just captured by one of our famous 3400 Chalmers, driven by L. W. Paxson.

Known from one end of the San Joaquin valley to the other, this difficult mountain trail has baffled every car, large and small, roadster and touring car, stripped and fully equipped.

In the presence of Ray Cooper, official representative of the Automobile Association of America, a regulation stock model Chalmers Six 30 turned the trick on September 3.

This is the identical model that smashed the New York-Chicago record, that fairly flew to Pikes Peak summit and that has been the sensation of the motor industry in twelve months time.

It is the car for you---we can demonstrate and deliver cars today.

SENSATIONAL FILM, "WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN"—WHITE

Tyrone Powers and Helen Blauve in "Where Are My Children."—New playing at White Theater

Two large audiences, matinee and evening, witnessed the opening performance of "Where Are My Children?" yesterday at the White Theater. The White theater management promises this latest star film drama is all that is claimed for it; a really wonderful picture, perfect in its photography, with excellent acting and a cast of competent screen artists headed by that eminent actor, Tyrone Power. "Where Are My Children?" comes to us labeled "a smashing daring subject, done in a smashing daring way." It is a picture that is both interesting and sensational motion picture yet presented to the public. This film drama is not the type of picture known as the Underworld or White Slave picture, it is on a much higher plane, being a picture of a kidnapping plot throughout, with a huge financial value which is worth its weight in gold.

"Everyone in town is talking about 'Where Are My Children?' and everyone in town will be given the opportunity of witnessing the film at the White before the week ends, as it will run up to and including next Saturday with special matinees on Wednesday as well as Saturday."

Rev. J. M. Caldwell Says:
Pastor of the Westminster church,
San Francisco. "I was one of the guests at the exhibition in San Francisco of the picture, "Where Are My Children?" I not only approve, but sincerely wish every woman and especially every young woman in this city, state and land, might see and accept its powerful lesson." The climax of the picture comes, when Tyrone Power, in the part of the avenging district attorney, finds that his own wife has been one of the patients of

"The Mission Play" Coming

Taking the golden glory of California days to the millions of Americans who may never hope to come themselves to California, the world famed Mission Play, will leave its home in San Gabriel early in September for a tour of the principle cities of the United States that will last for more than two years.

The dates at the White theater are Monday and Tuesday nights, September 11-12.

When the Mission Play, which has been called by Dr. Henry Van Dyke "the greatest American masterpiece," was first presented, it was intended that it should be taken away from that sunny atmosphere in which it was born and has had its being. The Mission Play is to America what the Passion Play of Oberammergau is to Europe. It is the American masterpiece, the play that has won the love and adoration of all humanity; touching the heart of humanity; lifting up the souls of men to the Power that is over all. It has given to men a series of pictures as broad as all humanity; a single picture in the whole world.

Now the heart after the last curtain has fallen as a blessing from an old man's lips will linger.

oil shafts up, and come to Calvary, although each one bears the cross. There are and are thousands who may come. And so the roll has come, strong and stronger every year, for the roll who could not come to San Gabriel—and this demand has become so insistent that the author of the play, John Steven McGeary, has yielded to it; and after 96 performances in its own specially constructed play house, at San Gabriel, the Mission Play is to go out and shed its light and beauty upon the world of America.

upon the world of America. The California play goes upon its tour with all the auspicious settings which have marked its productions at San Gabriel—the productions which have drawn thousands and which have spread the fame of the play around the world. It will carry nearly one hundred people, making it the largest traveling company of its kind, and the play places, as they were, grew up around San Gabriel, where the play grew up, and while they are not professional actors, neither are they amateurs. They have grown into the play, as the play has grown, a part of their lives. They are Californians, and some of them. Some of them are descendants of the first Spanish families that settled in the province of California. The Indians in the play are Californian Mis-

SELMANS THANK PRESIDENT WILSON

Wire Appreciation for Averting Big Railroad Strike

SELMAS, Sept. 3.—Selma, "The Home of the Peach," manifested its thanks to President Wilson for his efforts in averting the railroad strike by passing an appreciative resolution at the band concert held in Lincoln park last night. The resolutions, representing the sentiments of the crowd of four thousand people who were gathered at the concert and who were interested in the movement of crops of this section, were telegraphed to President Wilson last night. Credit for the thoughtful expression of appreciation is due John Rorden, president of the organization of the California Peach Growers, and director from this district. The resolution was suggested to the concert audience by Attorney W. B. Good and upon presentation found a hearty chorus of seconds and was carried with a rousing unanimous vote. Only one voice broke the silence when the negative vote was called for, and that came from a man in an automobile in the edge of the crowd who thought the chairman was calling for affirmatives and who registered a hearty "aye." The resolutions which were wired to the President were as follows:

"Washington, D. C.
"We the citizens of Selma and vicinity, four thousand strong, being now assembled at our usual Saturday evening summer band concert, do hereby acknowledge with appreciation and admiration of your strenuous, heroic and untiring efforts in averting the pending railroad strike.
"A general railroad strike at the present time, to our community, on account of green fruit and other shipments going forward, would be almost a catastrophe and a real disaster.
"We, therefore, as such citizens, hereby deem it our duty as well as our great privilege to thus acknowledge our indebtedness.

OLYMPIC ATHLETIC CLUB WILL STAGE 7 CONTESTS AT ZAPP'S PARK TODAY

Joe Coughlin, Frank Daken, Joe McGurk, Tony
Ross, Jene Cline, Jimmy Davis and Others to Wade Through 4-Round Bouts

"Sailor Snyder was very fortunate to get a draw with Joe Coughlin. The sailor, a middleweight, would be a tough customer to meet in a street fight, and he bothered Coughlin con-considerably with his rough-bang style of action. But Coughlin got his measure in the first two rounds and in the third and fourth rounds had things pretty much his way, though Snyder landed once in a while in a manner that brought shouts from the crowd. Snyder would have likely scored a knock-out in a six-round go."

The Daken and Farris bout should also prove a fast one for both men and possessed of a kick and both say they are going out to win in the shortest possible order.

Tony Ross and Joe McGurk, who furnished one of the best four-round games seen in Fresno in many years, box a return match and so do Young Monte and Joe Mascot. Jeno Cline, the two-handed sensation, and Young Melver meet and Fred Castle and Frankie White and Jim Bost and Young Mor-also get into action.

Arthur McAfee will officiate in all contests.

CHANEY PLANS TO CARRY FIGHT TO KILBANE FOR WORLD'S TITLE

Chaney's condition and confidence in no way exceeds that of the champion. The Cleveland man, realizing the strength of his opponent and knowing that Chaney expects to be on the offensive from the first day of the going, said tonight he would meet the attack and bring the fight into the challenger's camp.

Both men tonight were down to the stipulated weight of 132 pounds. They expect to weigh in the ring just before the bout starts.

According to Matt Hinkle, promoter and referee, every seat in the outdoor arena will be occupied. Gate receipts estimated at perhaps $39,000 are reckoned on. Kilbane is guaranteed

$10,000 with a percentage in addition. Chanev takes down $4,000, wins or lose or draw. A decision will carry the championship in the event of there being no knockout. Betting while light, made Kilbane the favorite.

ORGANIZED LABOR TO OBSERVE LABOR DAY WITH CELEBRATION

Big Street Parade Will Be Held This Morning at 10 o'clock; Ball Game Will Take Place at Recreation Park; Ball at Auditorium in Evening

Organized labor with this morning will hold one of the biggest street parades in the history of labor day celebrations in Fresno. The parade will start at 10 o'clock this morning at the intersection of Main and Broadway streets and will proceed to the Fresno Auditorium. The general committee has arranged for the celebration today.

From the crowded condition of the hotels and the enthusiasm that has been aroused it is predicted that the parade today will be one of the longest and biggest in point of marchers that has ever been held in the city with the possible exception of California Union Day. All unions that have representatives in the two councils will turn out in full force this morning and will march through the streets of Fresno to the tune of two union bands.

The parade will start promptly at 10 o'clock this morning and all union men are urged to be in line before that hour. The parade will be led by mounted patrolmen, headed by Chief of Police John Goehring. Behind the police will come Leonard's band, then men carrying the banners of the two central bodies. Then will follow the officers of the two councils, seated in automobiles. Several local business men have donated cups for the unions making the best showing in the parade and others firms have entered floats. The various floats have also entered floats representing their craft.

Carpenters First in Parade.
Following the seniority rule, Carpenters Union No. 110, the first body to organize in Fresno, will be the first local in the parade today.
The locals will fall in as follows:
No. 1, Carpenters.
No. 2, Painters.

No. 3, Plumbers.
No. 4, Retail Clerks.
No. 5, Cooks and Waiters.
No. 6, Laundry Workers.
No. 7, Hatters.
No. 8, Barbers.
No. 9, Musicians.
No. 10, Pressmen.
Second Division
Tillam's Band.
Labor News Float.
No. 11, Sheet Metal Workers.
No. 12, Millmen.
No. 13, Bakers.
No. 14, Engineers.
No. 15, Stucco Employees.
No. 16, Barbers.
No. 17, Cement Workers.
No. 18, United Laborers.
No. 19, Teamsters.
No. 20, Haul Carriers.
No. 21, Freeway Workers.
No. 22, Butchers.
No. 23, Iron Workers.
No. 24, Motion Picture Operators.
No. 25, Ice Drivers.
No. 26, Office Employees.
No. 27, Roofers.

The unions will line up as follows:
Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 on north I street, off Kern; Nos. 5 and 6 on south I street, off Kern; Nos. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 on Kern street between I and M; 13, 14 and 15 on north M street, off Kern; Nos. 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 on south M street, off Kern; No. 21 on north Van Ness, off Kern; Nos. 22 to 27, inclusive, on south Van Ness, off Kern. The floats will fall in at the end of the division passes on their street.

Line of March
The line of March follows: Down Kern street to I; up I to Merced; up Merced to J; down J to Tulare; up Tulare to Van Ness; up Van Ness to Fresno; up Fresno to M and then counter march back to Van Ness. In this counter march the union men will pass each other so they will be given an opportunity to see the parade.

WILL GRAFT SKIN ON J. L. JOHNSON

Victim of Explosion Will Recover From Body Burns

With an operation today in which forty square inches of skin will be grafted to the limbs of James L. Johnson, proprietor of Johnson's Cleaning Works, a complete recovery is expected. Johnson was severely burned two months ago when a mixture of gasoline exploded, spraying him with the flaming liquid. One entire side of his body was covered by second degree burns, and for several days no hope was entertained for his recovery.

Dr. Kenneth J. Stanford stated last night that the burned area had healed over with the exception of two small spots. A man by the name of F. P. Hunt has consented to furnish the skin, which will be transferred this morning.

Labor Day Committee, said yesterday that the subcommittee of Fresno had volunteered to close the saloons from 10 to 12 so that the barkeepers could take part in the parade.

The men who have been working for the success of the Labor Day celebration are: Jack Diamond, Charles Dillon and Ed Muldoon, Fresno Labor Council; Joe Green, Charles Pilgrim and E. J. G. La Rose, Fresno Building Trades.

The ball game between the two council teams will be held at 2:15 at Recreation Park. The grand ball will be held at the auditorium and hundreds of tickets have been sold.

The Building Trades Council of Tulare will send a strong delegation to take part in the parade and it is thought possible that many of the valley towns will send union men to march in the parade.

Movie pictures will be taken of the parade.

LAST BAND CONCERT APPRECIATED BY MANY

Fully 6,000 Applaud Numbers Rendered by Augmented Band

Fully 6,000 appreciative listeners attended the final band concert of the present season in Court House park last night and by their applause showed their approval of the program that Conductor Guyler H. Leonard offered. The feature number of the evening was the Tschalkowski overture, "1812," for the effective rendition of which the band had been augmented to thirty-two players. The program, marching feet, the rattle of drums, and finally the Marsellaise constituted the first part of the overture, while at the end—as with the Napoleonic campaign the number represents—the Slav conquerors, and the number ended with a burst of the Russian national hymn. A notable effect was secured during one movement of the overture, with church chimes over an accompaniment of clarinets.

Two numbers from the 1915 Ballet D'opéra, presented by their conductor, Earl Towner, were well received. Conductor Leonard's cornet solos were cheered twice. Tolman's "Hungarian Fantasia" pleased the audience, as did the two numbers from "A Love Episode in Birdland."

COUNTY TAX RATE TO BE SET TODAY

Supervisors Will Open Session; Rate Is About Same as Last Year

Members of the board of supervisors will meet in regular session today, in spite of the holiday, and will fix the county tax rate. It was announced last night that the tax rate would not be any higher than the $1.68 rate of last year and may be less. This is the most important business scheduled to come before the supervisors during the September session.

The supervisors this week will complete the canvass of votes from the primary election. There are sixty-six precincts yet to be canvassed.

Chris. Jorgensen, chairman of the board, said last night that a delegate would be sent on the automobile caravan trip to Sacramento and that if possible the entire board would adjourn and visit the state fair.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR PAT POWERS

A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Pat Powers, charged with the theft of a watch from O. C. Miller, a Santa Fe bridge carpenter. Powers is also wanted for running away from the court house park last Friday, where he was working as a trusty.

Neither King Nor Kaiser

Can Control Our Business

Its your clothing merchant's duty to protect you against the conditions which some inflamed minds try to make you believe are due to the present war in Europe.

Neither aristocratic woolen manufacturers nor suave artist clothing makers could pull the wool over our eyes and slip us American dyed woolens.

A Real "All-Wool" Guarantee

"Caution!" should be the watchword of every clothes buyer this season. The "cotton-cheater" is more active than ever in history. Where formerly he deceived you with a 50 per cent wool fabric—calling it all pure wool—this season he is offering a 25 per cent texture under an all pure wool label.

Under the disguise of War Prices, dishonest weavers have employed mercerization more extensively than ever and the merchant with a small output, or the ones who sell greatly advertised lines with fancy labels, are in the clutches of those unscrupulous clothing makers who lay everything to the war, and you either have to pay fabulous prices for a good suit or get one which bags at the knees and loses its color before the sun goes down.

When you buy a pure wool suit, you are entitled to a pure wool suit, and when you buy a suit of us you will find when we say "All Pure Wool," we mean all pure wool.

All wool material is not only promised, but is actually found in every garment we sell.

Real Honesty is what has built us into our present big success.

Truth is a permanent art of our every claim and promise. Don't let them slip that war talk over on you, when you know that the producer of wealth is getting no more for his production than before the war.

Our Prices are the same as before the war and our values of men's and young men's real $25.00 suits and overcoats for $15.00 will always be the same.

Our Guarantee And Your Satisfaction Insurance Policy

We will cheerfully refund your money if you can duplicate our All Pure Wool Suits elsewhere for less than $25.00. Our never changing price always $15.

We guarantee that any garment you may buy of us must fit you perfectly. If you are not pleased with it in every respect we ask you not to accept it, and not to pay one penny.

Truth and the Golden Rule Policy have spelled SUCCESS for us in seven capital letters.
